

ECONOMETRIC SOCIETY SUMMER SCHOOL
in
DYNAMIC STRUCTURAL ECONOMETRICS (DSE)

Booth School of Business and the Becker Friedman Institute for Economics at the University of Chicago

July 8, 2019 - July 14, 2019

Application deadline: April 30, 2019

We are pleased to announce an annual sequence of Econometric Society summer schools in Dynamic Structural Econometrics. The primary focus of DSE summer schools is to provide students with tools and “hands on” computational instruction to carry out research in applied microeconometrics with strong emphasis on closely integrating economic and econometric theory in empirical work. We will discuss state of the art methods for solving, simulating and estimating dynamic programming models and use a variety of empirical applications to illustrate how these tools and methods are used in practice.

The 2019 Econometric Society DSE summer school consist of 5 days of lectures held in conjunction with the 3rd Conference on Structural Dynamic Models (July 10-11, 2019). Besides the core components, including single agent models, equilibrium models, and dynamic games, the course will also feature applications that follows the special theme of this year’s conference, Industrial organization, marketing and business analytics.

Lecturers of the 2019 summer school are:

- Victor Aguirregabiria (University of Toronto)
- Øystein Daljord (Chicago Booth)
- Paul Ellickson (University of Rochester)
- Günter J. Hitsch (Chicago Booth)
- Fedor Iskhakov (Australian National University)
- Michael Keane (University of New South Wales)
- Whitney Newey (MIT)
- Sanjog Misra (Chicago Booth)
- Robert A. Miller (Carnegie Mellon)
- John Rust (Georgetown University)
- Bertel Schjerning (University of Copenhagen)

Interested students are invited to submit their applications via the summer school website
